MIDSOUTH ASSOCIATION OF INDEPENDENT SCHOOLS

The Midsouth Association of Independent Schools (formerly the Mississippi Association of Independent Schools and the Mississippi Private School Association) was organized in 1968 with seven charter members. Today the MAIS has 120 member schools in four southern states with over 40,000 students and 3,500 teachers and administrators. The Association maintains a full-time staff of eight with an office located at 176 Country Place Parkway in Pearl, Mississippi. The Midsouth Association of Independent Schools is governed by a board of directors representing each member school and an executive committee composed of two members from each geographical district of the Association. The MAIS is empowered to regulate interscholastic competition and activities, accredit school and certify teachers. Other services are provided to member schools as they relate to these three areas. The MAIS has a working relationship with the Southern Association of Colleges and Schools and is part of the National Council for Private School Accreditation (NCPSA) along with being an Affiliate Member of the National Federation of State High School Associations.

Interscholastic activities are essential to the education of the majority of our youth and are most certainly an integral part of the school curriculum. Physical and emotional development are closely tied in with these activities, and all of us must do our part in making sure that everything is kept in its proper perspective.

Administrators, faculty, coaches, participants and fans are honor-bound to abide by the proper rules of ethics and behaviors. We must remember that school sports are not a matter of life and death. As the years pass, the score of a contest will become relatively unimportant. It is the conduct of those involved that will be remembered.

What is MAIS?

Since its establishment in 1968, the Midsouth Association of Independent Schools (MAIS) has been dedicated to ensuring the educational excellence of its member schools. These schools take immense pride in offering outstanding educational opportunities to children residing in the midsouth region. When parents seek a secure and Christian-oriented educational environment for their children, independent schools, particularly those affiliated with MAIS, are their preferred choice.

With a network comprising 130 schools, MAIS currently caters to a student enrollment exceeding 40,000. Furthermore, these schools employ over 6,000 individuals directly while also generating business for numerous other enterprises. As vital contributors to their communities, both economically and socially, Mississippi's independent schools have made a substantial impact. A 2019 PEER Study commissioned by the Mississippi legislature revealed that these schools generate an economic impact surpassing $214 million annually and equal amounts in avoidance cost to the state.

While member schools' athletic teams consistently demonstrate their prowess at increasingly competitive levels, the academic achievements of their students have reached unprecedented heights, showing no signs of decline. Remarkably, MAIS schools have successfully placed 96% of their graduates into four-year colleges and community colleges. Moreover, their average ACT scores exceed the national average for college-bound students by four points.

MAIS holds an esteemed position within the education sector as an accredited partner of Cogina (SACS/AdvancED) and an affiliate member of CAPE (Council for American Private Education). Additionally, it is a valued ISANET (Independent School Association) member, further solidifying its commitment to promoting high-quality education and fostering collaboration among independent schools.
